

Kenneth Horoho

Kenneth J. Horoho is a partner in the Pittsburgh law firm of Goldberg, Gruener, Gentile, Horoho and Avalli PC. He formerly worked as an associate at Raphael, Gruener & Raphael, where he was made partner in 1987.

He has a long history in the area of child custody law and served as president of the Pennsylvania Bar Association in 2006-2007, where he was chair of the Young Lawyers Division and the vice-chair of the Children's Rights Committee.

Horoho received his B.A. in accounting from St. Francis University, from which he also received the Outstanding Pittsburgh Alumnus Award, and his law degree the Duquesne University School of Law. He was named an adjunct professor at the University of Pittsburgh School of Law in 2005, where he now teaches a course on advanced family law trial advocacy. He also assisted in the development of an educational video that explains the custody process for families in the process of divorce.

A second-generation Irish-American whose father's family hails from Galway, Horoho lives in Pittsburgh, with his wife and son, Sean.
